

Maclean's names 360°kids Canada's Best Charities 2020

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: NOVEMBER 29, 2019

York Region, CAN — 360°kids has announced that they have been named one of Canada's Best Charities 2020 by Maclean's Magazine.

With 84,000 registered charities in Canada, it is increasingly challenging to do the research to understand where funds will go. Maclean's has introduced a ranking of the best charities in the country in order to facilitate smarter, more effective decisions about charitable giving. Through research, they have assessed how hundreds of Canada's major charities compare on two key criteria: what they do with each donated dollar, and how transparent they are about it.

Using data from the organization Charity Intelligence, they were able to look at audited financial statements, not tax returns, and present the numbers in a way that makes comparisons possible. Their figures are the most complete and accurate information about charity finances in the country. This allowed them to compile a list of the 100 Canadian charities that performed best on those criteria—a great starting point for making decisions about where to give.

360°kids is proud to share that they have been named in the top 100 of Canada's Best Charities overall. Additionally, they are in the top 10 of Canada's Best Charities in the category of Youth Charities.
